

27. Basis of accounting is the method used to report revenue and expense transactions in your accounting system and financial statements. Refer to your audit report or contact your accountant if you are unsure which basis is used for your organization.